Bidney Paget Says So, Though the Celt Has Not Yet Been Scratched Na-tional League Meeting Here Next Tuesday Jeffries and Fitz Still Bluffing

As a result of illness this winter three of William C. Whitney's greatest thorough-breds will be unable to start in important events for which they were entered ago. Nasturtium, the $50,000 Watercress colt, will not be a starter in the English Derby, while the noted filly Endurance by Derby, while the noted filly Endurance by Right and the four-year-old colt Elkhorn have just been declared out of the Metro-politan Handicap. Sidney Paget, who has just returned from England, is authority for the statement that Nasturtium is prac-tically out of the Derby. Mr. Paget says that he saw Nasturtium in Trainer John Huggins's stable at Newmarket and that, in his estimation, it will be impossible to get the coit ready to start in England's blue ribbon event. Mr. Paget also says that the son of Watercress has gone to pieces, that he has lost fiesh and his muscles have ahrunk perceptibly. He is but a shadow of his former self and it will take some time to get him back into his best racing form.

Mr. Whitney's Elkhorn and Endurance by Right have been declared out of the Metropolitan Handicap chiefly because they have been suffering from influenza at the West-bury farm. Elkhorn it still quite seriously afflicted, while Endurance by Right is slowly afflicted, while Endurance by Right is slowly recovering. Neither will be able to stand even light training for some time yet, and Trainer Rogers says it is best to take no chances, especially with the filly. Mr. Whitney's other horses, notably Morningside, Goldsmith, Blue Girl, King Hanover, Goldseeker and Gunfire will begin light work at Sheepshead Bay very shortly. Yankee, the Hanover-Correction colt, who won the Futurity last year and later on was beaten by Clarence H. Mackay's Heno in the Matron clarence H. Mackay's Heno in the Matron Stakes, has wintered well and is in rugged health. He has developed into a fine racehorse and is expected to carry the Whitney colors to the front in many of the three-year-eld specials this season. In fact it may be said that just at present Yankee is the only horse in the Whitney stable whose condition for future events can be banked on.

In addition to Endurance by Right and Eikhorn, H. G. Crickmore announced officially yesterday that J. W. Schorr's Silverdale, Julius Fleischmann's Irritable, James R. Keene's Telescope, Frank Farrell's De Rezke and W. L. Oliver's All Gold have been declared out of the Metropolitan.

The National League baseball magnates have completed arrangements for the meeting of the Spalding and Freedman factions to be held in this city next Tuesday. While the magnates will indulge in a general conference on the rubber shoe plan on Monday, especially at night, they will not convene formally in joint conference until Tuesday. The constitution of the League requires that six clubs sign a call for a meeting, and it is safe to say that New York, Boston, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Brooklyn and Philadelphia are the six. As A. G. Spalding, the enjoined President of the League, was in the chair when the December meeting adjourned and as the League cannot legally meet until Spalding suses a regular call, the magnates have decided to get together in a novel way. The Freedman four—Freedman, Soden, Brush and Robison—have made arrangements to meet in this city not later than Monday night. The Spalding four—Drefyuss, Rogers, Hart and Ebbets—will come together simutaneously, Messages will pass between the places of conference and several peacemakers will get to work. When the coast seems clear there will be a confab between Brush and Hart and then a meeting of the whole, probably in secret.

On Tuesday, unless present plans fail, the League will meet and the scheme to place maters in the hands of N. E. Young, Brush and Hart will be consummated. A schedule will be adopted and umpires will be appointed, This is the method of procedure outlined by the different clubs, without consulting Freedman, who still says that a President will be elected, that Spalding will be oblit-erated and that the League as a body will have to once more bend the knee to the New York club. While the magnates are conferring, however, there may be a surprise in store for them. Rumor has it that A. O. Spalding has left California for the East and may bob up here at any moment. If he comes he will surely attend the meeting, if only son, the star pitcher. "Freedman believes that the magnates can surrender to Mathew-son just as gracefully as they can to any-body else from the New York club," said a baseball man last night, "but if Spalding shows up, it is dollars to dimes that there will be no surrender at all and possibly another baseball earthquake."

John McGraw, manager and third baseman of the Baltimore American League team, may never be able to play ball again. Last year he broke his leg, but apparently was all right when he left for Hot Springs even weeks ago. A recent accident, however, has laid the great player up and his physician says that unless an operation is performed he cannot play ball this year, and perhaps never. McGraw says that he can wak as well as ever, but that running around the bases and sudden starts after lifts have become impossible. Many experts have pronounced McGraw the best third baseman in the country, with the possible streption of Collins of the Boston Americans. Without him the Baltimores will present a team that will not class with Chicago, Boston. Philadelphia and St. Louis.

It was broadly asserted yesterday that the latest controversy between Jeffries and ritzaimmons relative to Los Angeles as a fighting ground is a pure bluff, calculated to keep up the interest in their mill and secure free advertising.

The men signed to fight with one of the Frisco clubs two months ago and the agreement holds good, said a well-known promoter. They understand each other perfectly and when the time comes they will be they have a compromise they have

ENGLISH 'VARSITY CHESS. Oxford and Cambridge Draw-Team for International Match.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN LONDON, March 21.-The annual chess match between Oxford and Cambridge was played at the British Chess Club in this city to-day and ended in a draw, each side scoring 3½ points.

Among the interested spectators were the American players Pillsbury and Napier, and the British champion, Blackburne. After the match it was remarked that the teams which represented the English universities this year were much weaker than the players who had taken part in similar matches in previous years. Under the circumstances, it is generally admitted here that the Americans representing the university chess clubs of Columbia, Harvard, Yale and Princeton will be able to dispose of the Britishers in the fourth annual cable chess match against Oxford and Cambridge, for which April 25 and 26 will be proposed as dates.

The British team will probably be made up as follows: William Grundy, H. F. David-son and H. D. Roome, Oxford; H. A. Webb, F. W. Clark, B. Golding-Brown, Cambridge. Among the possibles H. Taylor of Oxford and H. Bateman of Cambridge

The next two frames were slow with Wenrick as usual getting more balls than his oponent and they brought the accre up to 77 for Wenrick and at for Long. Ottawa's Team Wiss From the Hockey

Club of New York Bather Easily. The Ottawa hockey team met the Hockey Club of New York at the St. Nicholas Rink last night and won rather easily. The score at the end of the contest was: Ottawa, 4; Hockey Club, 3. The game was a peculiar one and in the first half it looked as though the Hockey Club would win easily. That team scored three times, while the Canadians failed to land the puck in the net. During the intermission the Canadians had a talk with intermission the Canadians had a talk with the referee about some of his rulings and it was found that in Canada they put a slightly different interpretation on some of the rules particularly those governing off-side play. Two of the Hockey Club goals were scored by off-side play and would not have been allowed by the Canadians. Russell scored the He got the canadians. and their team work was also good, but in the first half their defence was poor. Some thought that they played in a listless manner and were not trying. Gilmour and Stewart were put off for rough play.

In the second half, however, the Ottawa men put up a very different game. They rushed things from the start and nearly all the play was in the Hockey Club territory. Westwick scored the first goal for the visitors from a scrimmage. A few minutes later Fraser took the puck up and shot, but Ellison stopped it. Then there was a scrimmage and Westwick landed the puck in the net again. Stuart got a hard knock on the knee and had to go off the ice for some time. Then Gilmour got the puck and sent it to Stuart, who landed another goal, and Gilmour scored the fourth goal after shots had been made by Westwick and Stuart. The game was rather rough at the finish. Westwick was put off for tripping Russell and then Russell was sent to the bench for holding. De Casenova tried to use his stick too freely on Stuart and was put out of the game. Had he landed on Stuart there would probably have been no game to-night, as the Canadians have only brought down seven men. The teams lined up as follows:

BUHLIN STOPS PETER MARER. Past Fight at Philadelp

PRILADELPHIA, March 21.—Gus Ruhlin stoppedPeter Maher after about two and one-half minutes of the second round of what was to have been a six-round wind-up at the industrial Hall to-night. There was not an instant during the contest in which Maher appear ed to have a chance against his younger, instant during the contest in which Maher appear ed to have a chance against his younger, sturdier and heavier opponent.

Ruhlin showed the advantages which he has derived by his work with Fitzslamcas. He was in splendid shape, physically and carried himself with confidence. Maher was a trifle soft looking, but he never hesitated to mix it up. In the middle of the first round some of the spectators, remembering the Maher-Sharkey flasco, took it into their heads that the principals were faking and emitted all sorts of yells.

Ruhlin took the initiative at the sound of the bell, landing a straight left on the face, Maher getting back with a right back of the ear. A clinch followed, during which Ruhlin punished Maher severely about the body. When they broke away it was evident that Maher did not have long to stay with Ruhlin.

The latter started in to rush matters, sending Maher up against the ropes time and time again. Once Peter was half-way through the ropes, but was helped back by Ruhlin. Just as the gong sounded Ruhlin landed a stiff wallop on Maher's jaw, but a trifle too high to do any material damage.

Ruhlin cut loose right at the start of the second round and scored a clean knockdown, Maher taking the count, and it was a full count, too. Ruhlin, seeing that he had his man going, took no chances and devoted the bulk of his attention to the Irishman's wind. There was some rough work at close quarters, during which Ruhlin's face, opening an old cut under his eye and cutting the other. Maher was laboring, however, and while over in Ruhlin's corner he went down with a stiff body punch. He first went to his knees, and then trying to recian his feet fell over on the floor and was counted out.

With one exception the contests were very clean. In the 158-pound class between A. Mellinger of the St. Bartholomew A. C., last year's champion, and C. Schaefer of the Pastime A. C., Mellinger came into the ring with his body greased and on Referee Steil discovering the trick he ordered the men to the dressing room to "wash-up." There were clamorous calls from the spectators to disqualify Mellinger, but the referee was heedless of the point. On resuming hostilities the pair put up the most exciting bout of the tourney, which resulted in the St. Bartholomew man maintaining his supremacy. Nifiot, the 185-pound champion, won his bout in decisive fashion. The summary:

Frank Erne Wins From Gus Gardner. CHICAGO, March 21.-Frank Erne received decision in six rounds over Gus Gardner a decision in six rounds over Gus Gardner of Philadelphia before the Wabash Athletio Club to-night. Erne forced the fighting, relying mostly on his left, which he used in short hooks to the jaw and stinging lefts to the face.

Gardner landed a left on Erne's nose in the second round which started the blood flowing, but with this exception did little effective work.

Gardner took a chance in the sixth and final round and rushed Erne furiously. He sent his right several times to the body and staggered Erne, but the latter came back with left jabs as before. They were clinched at the gong. Referee Malachy Hogan declared Erne the winner.
